LOST TWO DAYS IN DAKOTA DIVORCE

Him in the Forest.

STARTED TO CLIMB PEAK. THE WOMAN MARRIED AGAIN.

Secame Exhausted On Gascade Polition of Her Husband Accepted on Mountain and Left His Friends to Return Alone Missed His Way and Wandered Long in the Celd

Peport Stat Charles C. B. Reid, a lawper, of No. 35 Broad street, this city, when the fellow-climbers of Mr Reid returned from the summit om Casoade and learned their companion had not appeared a searching party of guides uner Dr. Harry Brett and Thomas Wilson, of the Canadian Pacific Railroad, was organized and set out to find the test lawyer.

Not until Esturday noon was any trace of the missing man found. He was then discovered in the thick forest of Stony Squaw Mountain. It was by pure chance that he searchers found Mr. Reid.

he family of William Shaw, upon whose door at No. 307 East Thirty-second street a dispossess warrant was nailed while the youngest baby, seven months old, lay in its coffin, Mrs. Shaw has been unable to stand the strain.

while the youngest baby, seven months eld, lay in its coffin, Mrs. Shaw has been unable to stand the strain.

She is not able to leave her bed, nor ean the husband afford to call a dector. The mother frets over the loss of her little girl, who died for lack of proper mourishment. The neighbors, although also poor, have done everything in their power to help the family. Now that the wife is sick the husband is prevented from looking-for work because the two semaining children need attention and lires. Shaw will not consent to have them out of her sight.

The readers of the Evening World have helped the Shaw family materially. In fact had it not been for them the family would now be on the street. The justifiers of the house was determined to put them out. Even the baby in the coffin would not have prevented this action of the law had not friends came to the front with the necessary sio to pay the month's rent. But now there will be another menth due shortly. Mrs. Shaw was worrying about that when a resporter for the Evening World brought her the glad tidings of the offer contained in the following letter:

The tast night's issue of your paper I read about the Shaw family and their sad plight, and I must say I sympathise with them.

Through your paper I should like to make this offer, perhaps it will help them out of their trouble.

I am the landlord of No. 316 East yortieth street, and I have a four-reem apartment vacant. I will let them have these hooms free until the husband gets a position or until he thinks he is able to pay gent. ANTHONY CAVERLICO.

Mrs. Shaw went with joy when the letter was shown to her.

"I am ready to move anywhere," she said, "rather than stay here. All the time that I am here I jump at every size in the hall and think that they are coming again to put me out on the street with my two little children. We said, "rather than at when a more than grateful to all those who have seen so kind to me. What we would have done without their aid I don't kind offer to give us rent free in the house
